

Direct Cremation

There are various non-traditional funeral options. A direct cremation is when cremation takes place without using a funeral director, a funeral service or family and friends in attendance. It is completely separate from a traditional funeral or a personal farewell. Someone might choose this if they dislike funerals, wish to focus on a celebration of life, do not want a 'fuss' or as less costly option.

Direct Cremation may be available at your local crematorium - although Hastings and Eastbourne do not offer this provision as yet. Some funeral directors may offer this service and there are companies that offer expert direct cremation services.

Pure Cremations

They offer an independant nationwide service, providing direct cremations at their privately owned crematorium in Hampshire. Launched in 2012, they now dedicate their service to direct cremations only and offer pre-paid funeral plans too.

Simplicity

They offer a direct cremation service along with other options such as an intimate funeral in which a handful of family and friends may attend for a few minutes of reflection and an attended funeral which tends to be simple and family led. Their focus is on affordability and offer clear prices options on their website. They offer a nationwide service with pre-paid funeral options.
